6. “Robyn O’Neil: An Unkindness” at Susan Inglett Gallery

After years spent meticulously sketching virtuosic scenes in graphite that dance between the apocalyptic and the absurd, Robyn O’Neil’s new exhibition finds the artist disrupting her practice with the use of color and new methods. Although the show is titled after the technical term used to describe a flock of ravens (like the one dominating the central triptych), it could just as easily apply to the process by which O’Neil created her latest drawings, which she alternately assaulted with sandpaper, boiling water, and razor blades. Her chosen techniques add a fresh layer of emotional immediacy to her signature renderings of a natural world simultaneously awful and awe-inspiring.

Location: Susan Inglett Gallery, 522 West 24th Street

Price: Free

Time: Opening reception, 6 p.m.–8 p.m.; Tuesday–Saturday, 10 a.m.–6 p.m.
